NOT IN "THE FAMILY"

THE THEGRAPH is wrong again, as usual

The business of the Progressive party in the next few years will be to keep Republicans out of office, A quarrel in the family is always more bitter than a conflict on the outside, and so the Progressives are more pugnacious toward their former political associates than they are toward

The leaders of that party, from Mr Roosevelt on down through the counties and the states, purpose to nominate their candidates for all oftires with a view to disrupting the Republican tote. They will do this until their followers see how useless such a program and proceeding isit may take one election or it may take more but they will eventually find themselves back in the Republican ranks, refusing further to follow such fatuous program and such impossible esdership

We submit that it is enough to arouse the ire of any self-respecting Progressive to be taunted with having, within recent vears, been a Republican; and it is an added insult to intimate that they are still "In the family" in any sense whatever.

Most Progressives were once Republicans, though not all of them were by any means. Those who were are justly proud of their allegiance to that party in the days, now long past, when it was truly the party of the people. They revere the Tripory of I !" this not only as the greatest American statemen, but as the first great hade of the sepal can party, and they are gled to have Lien affiliated with that party so long as it remained loval to its early principles and traditions.

But they are not proud of their connection with it in the degenerate later days en it had become the personal property of such leaders as Barnes, Penrose, Crane, Root and a few others who used it as a means of stifling every effort at genuine reform, every attempt at true popular government. They are only sorry that they remained loyal to it as long as they did, for they see clearly now that their hopes of retorm from within the party were utterly futile. It is now a mere wreck of its former self, but the wreck is still in charge of the old crew, and their methods are as piratical as of old.

Just who anybody who is particular as to the sort of company he keeps should object to being classified as belonging to that family is easy to understand. The Progressives who were once Republicans are trying hard to torget it, or at least trying to forget their attituation with it in its later days, and those who never were Republicans are rightly proud of the fact. And that is a hy all of them enthusiastically geer at the Republicans who are now on their knees supplicating for amalgama-

But the Telegraph is trong in assuming that the Progressives 'purpose to nominate their candidates for all offices" merely "to disrupt the Republican vote. That vote is alread so thoroughly disrupted as to be a negligible quantity. The Progressives are no more concerned with in than they are with the Democratic vote. In other words, they are not going after the vote of an particular class or party. they are going after the vote of the people. in general

And the are going o ge it because the have first it all the principles and policies which appeal most strongly to the people. He is thrice armed who hath his quariel just, and the Progressive party is on the right side of the fight Again, it has the most effective organization today of any political party in the field, a permanent, working organization which does not quit between seasons. There is no campaign in progress now, and there will be none for a year, but the Progressives are going ahead just the same, perfecting their organization, liming up their forces, and getting ready for the fray. "In time of peace prepare for war." is a good maxim in politics also, for perfect organization wins elections his as it does harrles and the certainty that it will be many years before the activities of commerce will be disturbed again by tariff agitation, the wheels of industry will soon revolve with increased speed from end to end of the country factories will throb with new life. The wages of labor will pour into the arteries of trade, b'onfidence will come speeding with the altered conditions and prosperity resume the place it occupied, only greater and better, before revision of the tariff was undertaken by congress Nonsense! Whoever sits around listening for "factories to throb with new life" or watching for the "wages of labor to pour into the arteries of trade," as a direct consequence of tariff revision, is doomed to disappointment. The factories are already "throbbing" they have been doing it for several years, and the wages of labor are being paid without interruption. Not since the winter of 1907-8 has anybody had reason to complain of general business depression.

The tariff was not revised to remedy business depression, or to avert it. It was revised because the whole country knew that the Payne-Aldrich schedules were inequitable and oppressive. They afforded extravagant protection to interests which did not need it, and the cost of such protection came out of the pockets of the people. It increased the cost of living, and it was morally wrong because it favored the tew at the expense of the many,

It is reasonable to suppose that the ultimate effect of the new law will be to alleviate these evils to a very great extent. The problem which the Democrats faced in attempting revision was how to achieve this result without at the same time injuring American industry. How well they have succeeded remains to be seen, but it is absurd to predict, in the language of the News, that one of the consequences of their efforts will be that "the wheels of industry will soon revolve with increased speed."

Every city finds it necessary to issue books to carry on its business, and when issues are contemplated the people should be given the first chance to sub ribe for them. The plan worked in various cities can be made effective in all if the interest rate is large enough to assure a profitable investment for purchasers

In the second hour the prices were firm at %6% to % higher. Corn finished % to %6% up and oats virtually ceased. Prices were on a dead level until shortly before the close, when there was another small upturn.

The significant feature of the day was cometion of the liquidation in iron was the opinion of some traders that welling of these stocks, particularly United States Steel, had been overdone and covering of shorts was the main, factor in the morning advance.

In the afternoon trading was on the smallest scale of many weeks. Between one and two o'clock only 7,000 shares changed hands. Traders took more interest in baseball than in the stock market, and when the championonly game began, crowds around the news tickers were larger than those about the trading posts.

The firmer tone of American stocks in London influenced the opening here. London reversed its position in this market, purchasing 15,000 shares, approximately the number it disposed of here yesterday.

Hardening money rates tended to restrict speculation. Time money rates were advanced for the short periods.

Assertions that receipts horthwest would continue to diminish helped lift wheat prices. The arrivals there today were only two-thirds of those of A Year ago. A big increase of the world's available supply, however, had counted in favor of the bears, and there were also advices of beneficial rains in Argentine. Spasmodic weaknew, from such causes disappeared entirely though in the last hour, chiefly on account of the better export and Corn, after suffering a sharp break had a strong upturn. Rain that was said to be damaging forage in Kansas. and elsewhere was responsible for the bulge. The early wetback in prices came mainly through aggressive short selling on the part of pit traders. In the oats crowd, local speculators who hammered values early paid later.

Placing of Bibles on Free List Will Drive Out American Society

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 .- There have appeared various statements in the daily papers to the effect that by the passage of the tariff act, which puts. English Bibles on the free list, the American Bible society has been forced to abandon its printing plant in the Bible house in the city of New York, and has decided to print its scriptures in some foreign country, possibly Japan, in order to meet the competition of English Bibles printed in other lands where labor is cheaper.
What the effect of the tariff bill, in placing English Bibles on the free list will be, cannot now be determined. The society has taken no action whatever with relation to the matter. It has been in the habit of
